

North 4 Ceol na Mara Directions

Coming from the South there are two routes: one is to follow the A74 Glasgow/Stirling and take the M9 for Perth, then take Exit 11 to Doune/Crianlarich. Alternatively, you can cross Glasgow (by motorway and the Erskine Bridge) and drive up the shores of Loch Lomond on the A82 to Crianlarich. From Crianlarich continue north on the A82, following the signs for Fort William. Two miles after you have crossed over the Ballachulish Bridge turn left and go across the Corran Ferry. It is advisable to fill up with fuel prior to this as the Kilchoan shop and pumps are only open briefly on Sundays and fuel is sold at a premium.

From the Corran Ferry, the last 30 miles of road (from the outskirts of Strontian to Kilchoan) is single-track with many bends and consequentially slow. Coming off the ferry, turn left and head for Salen on the A861, and then turn left again, taking the B8007 to Kilchoan. Please try and leave yourself plenty of time for this part of the journey as it takes at least an hour and a half once you have crossed the Corran Ferry.

Ceol na Mara, Branault, Achateny, Acharacle, Highland, PH36 4LG

To find Ceol na Mara: after you pass Ben Hiant and Loch Mudle take the turn to the right, signposted Ockle. At the junction with the Fasdadle road, turn right, cross the burn and take the next right after Branault Cottage. Go up the drive to the last house. The back porch door will be unlocked for your arrival and the key will be on the dining table.

When driving on single-track roads please remember that passing places are indicated with signs, and must be used to permit oncoming traffic to proceed and to allow following traffic to overtake. Always stay on the left-hand side of the road when using passing places. No one minds how slowly anybody else drives along these roads, so long as they pull in to allow following vehicles to pass; always be aware that the car behind could contain a doctor or a member of one of the emergency services. Never park in passing places (however beautiful the view might be!); they are not viewpoints.
