

Directions to South 1 The Byre, Kilchoan, Ardnamurchan, Argyll PH36 4LH

Coming from the South there are two routes: one is to follow the A74 Glasgow/Stirling and take the M9 for Perth, then take Exit 11 to Doune/Crianlarich. Alternatively, you can cross Glasgow (by motorway and the Erskine Bridge) and drive up the shores of Loch Lomond on the A82 to Crianlarich.

From Crianlarich continue north on the A82, following the signs for Fort William. Two miles after you have crossed over the Ballachulish Bridge turn left and go across the Corran Ferry. It is advisable to fill up with fuel prior to this as the Kilchoan shop and pumps are only open briefly on Sundays and fuel is sold at a premium.

From the Corran Ferry, the last 30 miles of road (from the outskirts of Strontian to Kilchoan) is single-track with many bends and consequentially slow. Coming off the ferry, turn left and head for Salen on the A861, and then turn left again, taking the B8007 to Kilchoan. Please try and leave yourself plenty of time for this part of the journey as it takes at least an hour and a half once you have crossed the Corran Ferry.

To find the Byre: as you come into the village of Kilchoan there is a hotel on your left and then a church on your right. 300 metres further on take the turning to your right at the sign for Steading Holiday's Offices where we will be happy to help you. Please park beyond the cherry tree at the back of the Steading, go through the gate, and follow the burn side path to the door of the Byre.

Single-track roads

When driving on single-track roads please remember: passing places are indicated with signs, and must be used to permit oncoming traffic to proceed and to allow following traffic to overtake. Always stay on the left-hand side of the road when using passing places. No one minds how slowly anybody else drives along these roads, so long as they pull in to allow following vehicles to pass; always be aware that the car behind could contain a doctor or a member of one of the emergency services. Never park in passing places (however beautiful the view might be!): they are not viewpoints.
