

West 6 Directions to Eilean Feoir

Coming from the South there are two routes: one is to follow the A74 Glasgow/Stirling and take the M9 for Perth, then take Exit 11 to Doune/Crianlarich. Alternatively, you can cross Glasgow (by motorway and the Erskine Bridge) and drive up the shores of Loch Lomond on the A82 to Crianlarich. From Crianlarich continue north on the A82, following the signs for Fort William. Two miles after you have crossed over the Ballachulish Bridge turn left and go across the Corran Ferry. It is advisable to fill up with fuel prior to this as the Kilchoan shop and pumps are only open briefly on Sundays and fuel is sold at a premium.

From the Corran Ferry, the last 30 miles of road (from the outskirts of Strontian to Kilchoan) is single-track with many bends and consequentially slow. Coming off the ferry, turn left and head for Salen on the A861, and then turn left again, taking the B8007 to Kilchoan. Please try and leave yourself plenty of time for this part of the journey as it takes at least an hour and a half once you have crossed the Corran Ferry.

Eilean Feoir, Portuairk, Ardnamurchan, PH36 4LN

To find Eilean Feoir: drive into Kilchoan and at the T-junction in the middle of the village turn right and follow the road to the Lighthouse. Drive past the Sonachan Hotel, straight through Achosnich, over the cattle grid and continue along and down the hill to Portuairk. Continue on the road past the second house (the owners' house) on the right after the telephone kiosk and the driveway to the house is the next turning on the left. The keys will be in the front door.

When driving on single-track roads please remember that passing places are indicated with signs, and must be used to permit oncoming traffic to proceed and to allow following traffic to overtake. Always stay on the left-hand side of the road when using passing places. No one minds how slowly anybody else drives along these roads, so long as they pull in to allow following vehicles to pass; always be aware that the car behind could contain a doctor or a member of one of the emergency services. Never park in passing places (however beautiful the view might be!): they are not viewpoints.
